RED ROSE TEA "is good tea" The sealed package keeps it good

Where The Problem Lies

Every day serves to bring home more and more forcibly to the farmers of Western Canada the incontrovertible fact that their interests are bound up with the interests of other countries and peoples, and that the solution of economic problems in Canada is not wholly a matter of domestic concerns and domestic politics, but is dependent in large measure upon world problems and world issues.

For example, the organization of wheat pools to undertake the selling of the wheat crop of the West may, it is to be hoped will, result in the securing of a somewhat better price by the farmer, because it stands to reason that one expert selling organization can achieve better average results for tens of thousands of farmers than those same tens of thousands of farmers can average for themselves selling individually, and to some extent in competition with each other. But the more the Canadian farmer studies the situation, the more convinced he is that he cannot individually, or even collectively control the price of wheat. On the contrary, experience teaches that world conditions are the determining factor, and anything the Canadian people may do can only affect the price to a comparatively small extent.

In a recent address at Regina, Premier Dunning of Saskatchewan discussed this aspect of the problem confronting Western Canada at the present time. He pointed out that the 750,000 people in Saskatchewan were producing food enough to feed 30,000,000 people, and in this present year the production will even exceed that amount. But the 30,000,000 people are 5,000 miles away in Europe, and most of them have very little money, and the purchasing power of what little they have is momentously depressed.

Mr. Dunning declared it would take a carload of German marks to buy one bushel of Canadian wheat, and while the French franc, the Italian lire, the Austrian crown, and the currency of other European countries is not in the desperate condition of the German mark, all are below par. Even the English sterling has not its normal purchasing power, and with over 1,000,000 unemployed in the British Isles, representing probably 5,000,000 consumers, even the ability of England to buy Canadian wheat is seriously curtailed.

In this world situation it is to be found Western Canada's fundamental problem, declared Mr. Dunning. It links every quarter section of Western Canada land with the great world problem. Conditions in the Ruhr and the Rhineland have a very definite effect on the fortunes of every Canadian farmer. Our market is in war-torn Europe, and although we may make other readjustments and effect minor economies, that is all we can do. The big fundamental problem is to be found in Europe, and until the tangle there is unraveled, until stability replaces the present near chaos, the food producer in Western Canada has a struggle before him.

Everything that can be done to realize greater economy in transportation, distribution and marketing within Canada should be done, and every more having such objects is deserving of encouragement and support. So, too, should the individual farmer exert himself to reduce costs of production to the lowest possible point, at the same time endeavoring through the adoption of the most approved methods to increase, not his acreage, but the yield per acre.

It costs just as much in freight charges to transport one hundred pounds of weed seeds from the prairies to the terminals at the head of the Great Lakes as it does to transport one hundred pounds of grain, and to the extent that the farmer ships weed seeds instead of grain he is robbing himself of profit. Furthermore, land producing large quantities of weeds will not at the same time produce a large yield of grain per acre. The Western Canadian farmer will be much farther ahead and much better off, if, instead of trying to devise some means of controlling the world's price of wheat—which he cannot do—he devotes his energies to controlling the weeds on his own farm and ships clean grain instead of a combination of grain and weed seeds, something which it is within his power to control.

Until conditions are stabilized in Europe the Western farmer will likewise be well advised if he practices all the little economies he can. Never at any time in the world's history was it truer than it is today that a penny saved is a penny earned.

WORK-WORN WOMEN

Care of Home and Children Often Cause a Breakdown
The women at home, deep in household duties and the cares of motherhood, needs occasional help to keep her in good health. The demands upon a woman's health are many and severe. Her own health trials and her children's welfare exact heavy tolls, while hurried meals, broken rest, and much indoor living tend to weaken her. No wonder the woman at home is often indisposed through weakness, headaches, backaches and nervousness. Too many women accept frequent visitations as a part of the lot of motherhood. But many and varied as her health troubles are, the cause is simple and well at hand. When well, it is the woman's good blood that keeps her well; when ill, she must make her blood rich to renew her health. The nursing mother more than any other woman needs rich blood and plenty of it. There is one way to get this good blood so necessary to health, and that is through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These enrich the blood, and through their use many weak, ailing wives and mothers have been benefited. If you are ailing, easily tired or depressed, it is a duty you owe yourself and your family to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial. You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any druggist, or by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

IMPURITY

"Once in California I visited the beautiful garden of San Francisco and saw a very lovely flower."

Its petals were white, and when you opened up the heart away down at the very centre was a shape made by the base of the petals that looked exactly like a dove. It was a flower with a white dove at its heart. They called it the Holy Ghost plant of South America."

It is a fine thing when a girl or boy carries within them a white heart! There is no sin that leaves a worse stain than the sin of impurity."

It comes by unclean thoughts and words, and when it comes, it is next to impossible to wash it out. A man once looked at a dirty picture when he was waiting some writing. "It made for him a life-long night."

It is almost like putting nails in a post. You may draw them out but you can never quite fill out the hole left, and tell your heart you must be a growing life now, but there is always a scar left where the nail entered.

Some boys like to tell nasty stories, and if the boys to whom I talk have sense enough they should turn from nasty story-tellers the way they would from drinking poison.

It is a very bad thing to do with your memory. It is like inflexible ink that you use when you want some writing not to wear out.

The great General Grant, the United States hero of the Civil War, was once at a party where one of the men were who think it smart to tell down-dirty stories. Looking around, the man said, "I have a story to tell you. There are no ladies present are there?" "No," said Grant, "but there are some gentlemen."

That story was never told. Dear girls and boys, when any evil breath like that is around, think of your dear mother or your beautiful sister, and tell your heart you must be true to them.

"I must be true, for there are those who love me."

I must be pure, for there are those who care."

A newspaper published these verses that I think are so good. I would like you to learn them.

While walking through a crowded downtown street the other day, I heard a little urchin to his comrade turn and say:

"Say, Jimmie, let me tell youse, I'd be happy as a clam."

If I only was de feller dat me mudder 'tinks I am."

She just 'tinks dat I'm a wonder, and she knows her little lad."

Could never miss wid nothin' dat was ugly, mean or bad."

Loves er times I sits and 'tinks how nice 'twould be, to see white."

A feller was de feller dat his mudder 'tinks he is!"

My friends, be yours a life of toil or undid plenty of it."

You still can learn a lesson from this small unlettered boy. Don't sin to get a filthy saint with eyes fixed on a star."

Just try to be the fellow that your mother would be proud of you."

And how can we keep the life straight, and in a true direction? You must have the spirit of Ulysses and the Sirens—how he kept himself and his sailors from the influence of the Sirens' song, and then the sirens played on the dangerous rocks, by filling their ears with wax; and having himself tied to the mast till they passed in safety."

That is one way—the way of stiff stern duty and obedience to law. But there is a better way!"

Smoking Is An Ancient Art

Known Sixteen Centuries Before Sir Walter Raleigh's Day

That the practice of smoking tobacco centuries before Sir Walter Raleigh introduced it to Europe is the discovery of Dr. A. C. Krut. The statement is contained in a description which is recently given to the British Association, regarding an ancient race who once inhabited the Island of Celebes, in the Dutch East Indies. Dr. Krut has spent sixteen years on this island and is returning for another five-year period to complete his investigations of the people there, who used to tobacco in those far-off days.

For many years, smokers in Canada have enjoyed the use of Old Chum Smoking Tobacco. The old men of today smoked it in early manhood and their verdict is that Old Chum is as good now as it was fifty years ago.

MOTHER OF TWIN BOYS

West St. John, N.B.—"I was in a general run-down condition following the birth of my twin boys. I had a great deal of pain, with pains and weakness. Finally my doctor recommended Lydia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound. I said that my medicine would be the only thing to build me up. I am sure he is right, for I am feeling much better, and am gaining in weight, having gone down to ninety-three pounds. I was in bed for over a month, but am up again now. I have recommended the Vegetable Compound to my friends and give my permission to use my letter."—Mrs. ELIZABETH A. HITCHCOCK, 82 Rodney St., West St. John, N.B.

There are many women who find their household duties almost unbearable owing to some weakness or derangement. The trouble may be slight, yet cause such annoying symptoms as dragging pains, weakness and a run-down feeling.

Lydia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound is a mild medicine, and under such conditions it has in many cases relieved those symptoms by removing the cause of them. Mrs. Finkham's experience is but one of many.

The Approaching End Of Single Crop Farming Is A Hopeful Sign In The West

The elimination of the "land miner" in the west is cited by a prominent banker as one of the brightest signs of the times. The farmer who mines his land instead of farming it is being replaced by the real farmer. As time goes on this process of elimination will bear fruit in sustained productivity of the soil and a prosperous and more contented rural population.

"Clean-ups" are still being made in wheat. A recent report from Alberta states that with low-priced farm lands and heavy yields of grain in that province this year, some farmers have been able to "accomplish wonders" in the way of financing their farms. As an instance: Certain parties acquired a farm near Consort in the fall of 1921, which they prepared for crop last year and saved this year to wheat. The crop which they have just taken off has paid for itself and for the land in addition.

Such instances are unusual. Alberta had an exceptionally heavy wheat yield this season. She can not depend upon having such yields year in and year out—and neither can Saskatchewan nor Manitoba. Consequently there is nothing in the experience of the few farmers in the west who have done "wonders" with wheat this year to disprove the contention that in the long run straight wheat growing or one-crop farming of any sort is bound to be as bad for the farmer's bank book as it is for his soil. One-crop farming is "land-mining"; and "land-mining" means taking everything out of the soil and putting nothing back.

This sort of "farming" is nothing more or less than straight gambling. The only certain thing about it is that in the end it wears out the soil, which is the farmer's principal capital; cuts down production, and eventually leaves the farmer poor. Where one farmer pays for his land with a single wheat crop these days, a dozen farmers can't pay their taxes out of wheat. The longer men live and farm in this part of the country the more they have to improve upon them that it is more profitable in the end to make a little money each year than to take a gambler's chance of making a "pile" every fourth or fifth year and having to spend it all during the intervening lean years. An increasing number of them are consequently going in for dairying and diversified farming. They are listening to the advice of men who have made a study of farming the world over. They are also learning from the experience of older settled districts on the great plain of America, which were cursed with the land miner in their early days and have been forced in recent years to revert to balanced farming.

This is indeed one of the hopefullest signs in the west today. The bank and the loan company are frequently looked upon by the farmer as his natural enemies. They are not only not his enemies; but in many ways they are among his most useful friends if he would but recognize the fact. Within the last few months there have been indications that in the future those who have money to loan to farmers will view with greater favor the applications of diversified, dirt farmers than those of land miners and one-crop gamblers. This attitude of the banks and loan companies, if persisted in, as it will undoubtedly be, will have the effect of benefitting both themselves and the farmers. The loans will be better secured, and the farmers will be protected against the inevitable consequences of gambling with nature. The country will benefit all around.

Some farmers will perhaps look upon the kind which has been indicated as a disagreeable form of benevolence. The wiser ones will accept it in the spirit in which it is intended. Wheat will probably remain for many years the principal crop in this province, but straight wheat farming is doomed. As the foundation for a system of intelligently balanced farming, wheat is a very valuable crop. As a whole system in itself, wheat is as risky as any other crop.—Regina Leader.

Stagnation is but ordinary gab with holiday clothes on.

Alberta's Municipal Hospitals

Success of System is Unique on American Continent

Significant comment on the success of the serviceability of the municipal hospitals system of Alberta, which is unique on the American continent, is contained in the October number of the "Modern Hospital," the organ of the American Hospital Association. The comment is in the shape of an editorial note on an article written by Arthur K. Whiston, supervisor of hospital organization in Alberta. The article is based on an address delivered by Mr. Whiston at the annual session of the Alberta Hospital Association. The article is printed in full, with the following note by the editor:

"The public demands upon the municipal hospital are becoming more each year. The hospital as a semi-private institution where those who can afford its care in time of sickness have gone forever. Today, we are trying to make the hospital an institution open to everyone who needs the facilities it offers. The municipal hospital as a public utility presents a peculiar problem in that it may not become a burden. The municipal hospitals of Alberta have adjusted themselves to this difficulty through a plan by which the well pay for the hospital service of the sick through a tax for that purpose. This, together with the one dollar a day rate charged patients, finances the hospital. In this way the burden of maintaining the hospital is equally distributed among taxpayers.

Fur Farms In Canada

Total Value of Animals in Captivity Placed at $5,800,000

Fur farms are found in every province of the Dominion, as well as the Yukon Territory. In 1922, as shown by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, there were 1,926 farms in operation, of which 977 were devoted to foxes. Fox farms increased by over 500 in comparison with the previous year, while there was an increase of 12 in the miscellaneous fur-bearing animal farms. Prince Edward Island led the Dominion in the number of fur farms, having 434 in 1921. Quebec came next with 145. Only four were found in Saskatchewan.

The total value of fur farms last year was $7,790,104, of which amount $5,800,000 represented the value of the animals. Silver foxes on the farms at the end of last December numbered 22,318, an increase of some 25 per cent. over 1921. Foxes of all kinds numbered 24,126.

The average value of a silver fox last year was $252, compared with $201 in 1921. Mink, racoon, skunk, martens, fisher, beaver, muskrat and Karakul sheep are also being raised in captivity for their furs, but foxes have so far proved most suitable for domestication. Live foxes exported from Canada during the fiscal year ended March 31, 1923, numbered 1,513, valued at $285,152, comprising 1,187 specified as silver foxes at $206,907, two as patch or cross foxes at $100, and 324 at $78,145, of which the kind was not given. The total number exported the previous year was 1,390, valued at $210,709.

Interest In Annuities

Increasing interest throughout Canada in the Dominion Government annuities is indicated by a large increase in applications for this form of investment made during the last six months to the Dominion annuities branch of the Department of Labor. During the first six months of the present fiscal year, which starts on April 1, the amount of money invested has been over $587,000, which is an increase of $125,000 over the value of the annuities issued in the same period last year.

Settlers From U.S.

Number Decreased During Year But More Money Brought In

Settlers to enter Canada from the United States in the western immigration division during October numbered 608, showing a decrease of 155 under the total for the same month of 1922. It was announced at offices of the Dominion Immigration Department. Though the number of newcomers was smaller than in 1922, the wealth brought into the country by the settlers exceeded that brought in last season. This year's figure was $170,931 compared with $140,269 last year, while the value of settlers' effects was placed at $42,111 compared with $47,249. North Portal proved the most popular port of entry for the month; it was learned, for 161 entrants were reported from there. Second came Emerson with 124.

Selecting The Best Varieties Of Wheat For Growing In The Prairie Provinces

Canadian Apples Winners

Four First Prizes Go to B.C. at Imperial Fruit Show

At the Imperial Fruit Show held recently in Manchester, England, four first prizes were awarded to British Columbia apple growers and two to Nova Scotia growers.

In the British Empire section, the first place for "any dessert variety" went to the Associated Growers of British Columbia. In the same section for any cooking variety, the first three prizes went to English exhibitors, while the fourth position went to the Associated Growers of British Columbia.

Three special prizes were won by the Associated Growers of British Columbia. The Associated Growers secured the Daily Overseas Gold cup (£50) for the exhibition in the overseas section; the Goodwins, Limited, silver cup (£45) for the best entry by any British Columbia cooperative organization; and the Popart, Limited, prize of £10 in gold for the best British Columbia exhibit in the overseas section.

A few hours after the Leviathan reached port two laundries washed and ironed 42,000 pieces of linen. The rush was made so 1,140 emigrants on board might be included in the November quota.

Blotting Paper From Wood Pulp

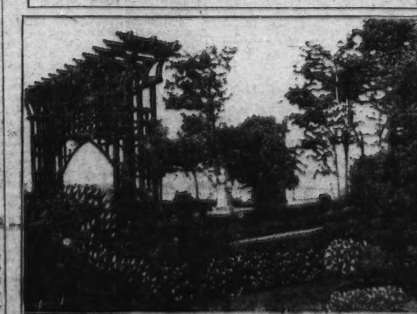

New Departure in the Manufacture of Blotting Paper

As a result of investigations recently carried out by the Forest Products Laboratories of the Forestry Branch of the Department of the Interior, Canada, in their experimental paper mill, blotting paper with excellent absorptive qualities has been produced entirely from wood pulp. This is an entire departure in the manufacture of blotting paper, the best grades hitherto being made from rag pulp. An interesting feature of the new product is that it contains a large proportion of pulp made from a wood which, although plentiful, has found little employment in the pulp industry in Canada.

WINTER RESORTS IN CANADA

THE gateway to Stanley Park, Vancouver, world famed as one of the healthiest and most beautiful winter resorts, is making it more and more popular as a winter resort.

The selection of the best varieties of wheat for growing in the Canadian west may be considered one of the most important questions with which the agriculturist has to deal. In years gone by Red Fife wheat was considered to be the best wheat for western conditions, when the wheat growing area was small. This, old Red Fife was only suitable for southern districts in the prairie provinces, where it is still grown to a certain extent, and to districts where coolness was not an important factor. It was soon found, however, in the development of the Canadian west, that an early variety was necessary. The Experimental Farms ever since their inception have endeavored to introduce early, high-yielding varieties of good milling quality.

The most noteworthy introduction of the Dominion Experimental Farms, as far as wheat is concerned, is the variety Marquis which has become world famous in a very short time. In the year 1892, numerous crosses were made of our Canadian wheats from India and Russia, with the result that Marquis wheat was originated from one of these crosses, but it was not until 1903 that a pure line selection was obtained. From then on, Marquis has gradually gained the ascendancy over all other wheats in the west, yielding about 90 per cent. of the wheat grown in Canada is Marquis. It is also worthy of note that 16 per cent. of the wheat grown in the United States of America is Marquis. One other wheat has in that country a higher percentage than Marquis and that is Turkey, a winter wheat that is grown in the majority of the states. Of the spring wheats, however, Marquis is the first in popularity and leads all spring wheats by about 8 per cent. of the total wheat area of the states. In 1919 some twelve million acres of Marquis wheat were grown in the United States.

The Experimental Farms, always keeping in mind their objective of an early, high-yielding wheat of good milling qualities, have been anxious to introduce other wheats of less commercial value but still of utmost importance for certain districts. Among these other wheats should be noted Ruby, Prelude and Huron. Ruby wheat is a wheat which ripens about 10 to 15 days earlier than Marquis and is therefore suitable in districts where Marquis, in the average year, is a little too late. Ruby, however, is not as high yielding or of as good milling quality as Marquis. In fact, therefore, Ruby is grown only in districts where Marquis is not a sure crop. The Prelude wheat is an extremely early wheat, suitable only for districts where the season is very short. Prelude ripens about 15 to 20 days earlier than Marquis, or 4 to 5 days earlier than Ruby.

The above wheats are most adapted to western conditions, but it has been found that they give excellent results under Eastern Canadian conditions, especially if grown on somewhat heavier soils. The Prelude division, when considering its wheat work, has always kept in mind the requirements of the east as well as the west, with the result that Huron wheat was introduced for use in Eastern Canada on the lighter soils. Huron is a bearded wheat which gives good results on the sandy soils that are so frequently met with in Eastern Canada.

The introduction of the above wheats has financially meant a great deal to Canada. It has been computed by various persons that Marquis wheat alone has added to the wealth of Canada some $10,000,000 per annum. Apart from the financial aspect, the fact that 90 per cent. of the wheat produced in Canada is Marquis is in itself a sufficient assurance that Marquis has been of great benefit to the Dominion.

As it happened, we did not hear of another suitable cow at the time, so I put the remainder of Cousin Margaret's gift in the bank. I have omitted to say that as soon as it was decided that we should go to Herrington's Hope she wrote me a long letter, full of good advice, and enclosed a cheque for the proceeds of the sale of two young cows, "which I should have given to the children if you had been coming near us."

Both Cousin Margaret and Mr. Campbell were very much interested in our venture and though Murray was somewhat backward about accepting so large a gift I convinced him that it was not a case for false pride. The Campbells were very much comfortable circumstances, and they were very fond of the twins.

With Carrie established in one of the stables and twelve hours rapidly becoming acclimated in the other we began to feel that we were real farmers. If Carrie had not been a perfect lady she would doubtless have expressed her opinion of amateurs in the only manner at her disposal. But she never once kicked the pail over, nor put her foot into it, and it was not long until Murray and I could both milk her properly. And nothing ever tasted so good as the cream that came out of the top of the tall old-fashioned milk cans, unless perhaps the butter and the buttermilk.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

Toddy went back to the city for the 1st of September, and then we began to learn what isolation really meant. So long as he had been with us the picnic spirit had been more or less evident in all that we did. But with his going I felt that no matter what the future might hold, it could bring to me at least, no time of more severe testing.

The neighbors were busy with the harvest, and day after day passed without our seeing a living soul. At times the silence pressed on me like a physical burden, and at night I seemed actually to feel the thick darkness that I afterwards learned to love. Like poor old Sir John babbling of green fields I longed for Portage Avenue on a Saturday night, for the dome of the Capitol outlined against the sky, for the never-falling sunrise of the twin towers of the Cathedral as one sees them through the railings and tracks and bridges of the wholesale district, for the changing faces of the crowd, even for the noise of street cars and automobiles.

I do not mean that I was constantly unhappy, nor do I think that even Murray realized what the tearing up of all my roots meant to me. My homesickness was of the subtle sort that waxes with one in the morning, that can be kept silent by work and play during the hours of daylight, but that raises its fearful head whenever one is alone or quiet and is always to be found on one's pillow at night.

Even with the making of cranberry jelly and the preserving of wild plums added to my housework there was not enough to keep me safely busy in doors, and so our very occasional caller was likely to find the whole Aylesbury family in one place, that place being wherever Murray's work happened to take him.

Jim Cameron, I think, was rather shocked the day he found me helping to unload and pile out winter firewood. Personally, I found it rather an amusing task, and I could never understand why I should not help Murray whenever I could, especially as at that time I was actually more fit than he. Of course I did it all in as "womanly" a manner as possible—wore gloves and a wide hat whenever I thought of them. I had vowed a solemn vow that nothing on earth should make me careless about my appearance or about the necessities of life, and that my tomboy childhood and teenage playing and snowed-out girlhood had made it possible for me to do what might be considered a man's work seemed no sufficient reason for neglecting my hands or my complexion or my clothes. At first Murray hated the thought of my doing outdoor work, but the children and I made a game of it and I quoted VAAZS and munition workers until he had to give in. As he grew stronger the need for my assistance passed and I became a lady once more. But that I was able to help him when he needed help justified every bump and bruise and torn dress of my childhood. I should have been ungrateful indeed had I not admitted the feeling of deep content that gradually blunted the sharp edge of my homesickness.

"When I began taking Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I was so nervous that when I picked up a cup of tea my hand would tremble like a leaf. I could not sleep well, could not remember things, and there were neuralgic pains through my body. After taking seven boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, however, I am in perfect health."

"My Hands Trembled and I Could Not Sleep"

Mr. Thomas Honey, Branford, Ont., writes:—

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

50 cents a box, all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

For it was soon evident that our experiment, which had sometimes seemed so wild a venture, was already proving itself a success in its most important aspect. Murray, except when he fussed about his wife's having to do something that he thought was too hard or too unpleasant for her, was to all appearances perfectly happy. When Dr. Butherford first advised our leaving the city I had asked Murray if he did not fear the loneliness of country life.

"Not for myself," he answered without hesitation. "If you can stand it I can. You see, Margaret Anne, when a fellow has been under someone's eye day and night for years, as I have been, the prospect of being absolutely free, with no one near but the family is pretty near Heaven. And I've had noise enough to last me all my life, thank you."

Murray so seldom spoke of his experiences as a prisoner that I had not realized before how deeply he had been bitten into his consciousness. I wondered if it perhaps isolation would be bad rather than good for him, but the doctor was so sure that could his physical condition be improved his nerves would cure themselves, and Murray so eager to follow the doctor's advice, that I did not mention the matter again.

It was soon proved that I had worried unnecessarily. I do not mean that Murray miraculously became again the man he had been, and perhaps he will never lose the scars that are not mentioned in his discharge papers. But I could see that he was gradually growing stronger, and that the stiffness and the loneliness, to which I found it hard to adjust myself, were just what his weakened body and tortured nerves required. Though he never acquired an appetite to match Jim Cameron's and soon began to gain in weight. And almost from the first he slept better than he had since his return to the city, and he would wake in the morning with his restful energy, instead of under the shadow of a dream.

The children, too, were happy as a rule. They had always been accustomed to play together and Herrington's Hope afforded many opportunities for new and fascinating pursuits. Once in a while Nicolas gave evidence of missing her old environment. I remember very distinctly one night when, long after the children had gone to bed, I heard a smothered cry of "Mother!" and going into the room I found Rupert sound asleep but Nicolas crying quietly to herself in the darkness.

"I w-w-want to go to my own house," she sobbed. "It's so d-d-dark here and the trees are so close and I d-d-don't like lamps and w-w-water pails."

"You have Daddy and Mother and Rupert and Carrie and Star and Stockings and the chickens," I reminded her as I picked her up and dried her wet little face. "You must be a brave girl and help Mother to take her errands. You must go to the barn going to make Daddy better, so that he'll not have to go to the hospital again."

"He c-c-couldn't," because there isn't any hospital," was the somewhat choked reply. "I don't want t-t-trees and trees and no people."

"But you like trees," I said, "if there were no trees you would miss the birds and the squirrels live!"

It was an unfortunate argument. "The poor little b-b-birds will get all lost and starved!" wailed Nicolas. "I don't like the rain, Mother, I w-w-want to go back to my own house."

The sun was shining in the morning and Nicolas was her usual happy self but as the daylight brought home to her mind the superiority of horses and chickens over electric light, nor did she ever again give way to her feelings with such violence.

Perhaps I talked to Nicolas too much in those first days, but she was so wise and old-fashioned in many ways that I thought it best to take her into my confidence. So I told her how necessary it was for us to stay on the farm, and her adoration of her Daddy drove the lesson home.

"But I don't like the trees when they make the wind blow," she insisted after we had discussed every other point. "They go 'oo-oo-oo' like a wolf, and maybe if a wolf did come we would not hear him."

"And there are no wolves here, darling," I said, after I had explained that it was the blowing of the wind that made the trees lose and not the loss of the trees that made the wind blow.

"That Rupert says there are," was the surprising reply. "He says there are wolves like Red Riding Hood's in those big Christmas trees across the creek. Can wolves swim, Mother?"

I am not aggressively modern as a rule, but I should like to prescribe several of the old-fashioned nursery tales that make so deep an impression on the sensitive mind of a child. Both the twins had insatiable appetites for stories, and from other children, and from the women who used to keep them when I went out, they had heard some that I should never have told them. I had thought that a much abridged rendering of "Snow-white" and the "Jungle Book" had displaced Red Riding Hood, but it was now evident that the earlier impression was still strong.

I did my best to convince Nicolas of the improbability of there being wolves in the bush across the creek, and of their harmless habits even if there should be an occasional one. But it was Jim Cameron who really set her mind at rest. Belief in her mother's infallibility was strong in Nicolas, but she had the truly feminine faith in a man's superior knowledge. And so when "Mr. Jim Cameron" told her that he had never seen a wolf on her Daddy's farm she was satisfied, and as eager as the rest of us to explore the corner of the homestead that lay across the creek. We would have to wait until the early winter brought ice strong enough to carry us, for, though narrow, the creek was fairly deep and I, with the prairie-bred dress of water, did not take kindly to the thought of a raft or a telled tree. When winter came, Murray promised us, we would build a foot-bridge.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

As I have said, we saw little of our neighbors for the first month. The Cameron brothers were the exception, and they were a host in themselves. Bob proved to be older, quieter and not red-headed. Jim, but we were equally friendly and equally appreciative of my cooking. He had been over with the 20th Battalion, and he and Murray quickly reached the "do you remember" stage and soon became rather more than mere acquaintances.

Bob is a fine fellow I'll admit, steady and dependable and thoughtful. But I shall always have a soft spot in my heart for the more exuberant Jim, my first friend. From the first he attached himself to me and the twins, and Murray has always laughed at his devotion. But I do not mind being laughed at, the lad's heart is inflammable in reality as his hair is in appearance, but he has one of the most cheerful temperaments I have ever known; and he will do anything for a person he likes. We soon learned that Jim had his serious side too, and when we asked his opinion on anything we thought of doing, he was as matter-of-fact as Bob, and his advice always proved to be worth following.

We were indeed fortunate to have such friends, and I found ways in which to repay a part of their kindness. Since the boys of sixteen and eighteen they had come West they had "bached," and their appreciation of a woman's home-making ability was truly pathetic. They seemed to think that the darning of a three-cornered tear in a sturdy coat, or the gift of a cake or some home-made candy was of much greater importance than their saving us from the situation we should have been certain to make had they not helped us.

World Cruise of British Squadron

Will Visit B.C. Coast in June and Canadian Atlantic Ports in August

The British Admiralty has issued the programme for the forthcoming world cruise in which the battleship Hood and Repulse and a light cruiser division will take part.

The squadron will leave Devonport, November 27, and will proceed sometimes at full strength and sometimes in divisions, around Africa, calling at the principal ports. Thence they will go to Ceylon, Straits Settlements, Australia and Fiji.

The light cruisers will arrive at Esquimalt on June 21, and will stay there 12 days, while the battle cruisers will put in a similar period at Vancouver and Victoria.

The entire squadron will then go to San Francisco, after which the light cruisers will steam around South America, calling at the chief seaports.

In the meantime the battle cruisers will pass through the Panama Canal and after a visit to Jamaica, will arrive at Halifax on August 5, remaining there 10 days. A 14 days' stay will be made at Quebec beginning August 15, and Nova Scotia or Newfoundland will be visited from September 4 to 17. The battle cruisers will afterwards rejoin the light cruiser division, and the squadron will make home ports on September 28.

Oil Geyser in Batu Due probably to shifting strata in the Caspian Sea, an unusual phenomenon in oil wells was noticed recently near Batu. A geyser suddenly began erupting from the sea, several miles off the coast, and during two hours of activity spouted at a height of 70 ft., throwing off stones as well as oil. The eruption was accompanied by flames. A small island formed when the geyser died down.

The Restless Age
 "Estimating the travellers on the hundreds of railroads north of the Rio Grande, and the thousands who travel by motor car, it will be found that a good proportion of the 118,000,000 people who live in the United States and Canada are going somewhere all the time. This is indeed a restless age."

GERMANY WILL NOW REPUDIATE TERMS OF TREATY

London.—Germany has decided to repudiate the Treaty of Versailles and not to comply with either the reparations clause or any other of the clauses of the treaty as long as the French and Belgians occupy the Ruhr, says a dispatch to the Daily Mail from Berlin.

The complete cessation of every kind of reparation payment by Germany is semi-officially announced, according to a dispatch to the Central News from Berlin. This action was taken on the ground that the Treaty of Versailles had been violated by France, and that, therefore, it could not be observed by Germany.

The government's attitude, says the dispatch, is that repudiation follows logically its theory that the occupation of the Ruhr infringes the treaty, and that as long as the French and Belgians persist in breaking the terms of the treaty, Germany is excused from observing them.

Berlin.—After November 25 Germany will no longer be able to meet the drain upon her exchequer for the payment of unemployment doles in the Ruhr and the Rhineland and will then set both these regions adrift, permitting them to shift for themselves. This direct statement was made in official quarter here.

Market in the Orient

Good Opening for Canadian Trade in Far East

Victoria.—That there is a market in the Orient for British Columbia's fruit and lumber and Canada's wheat and other products is evidenced in the statement made by August Frosted, manager of the Canadian National Railways in the Orient with offices in Hong Kong. He said: "Not only has the Canadian Government exhibit generated many inquiries from Oriental firms, but the trade commissionaries, Calcutta, India, also have secured many inquiries regarding Canada's products and manufactured goods."

"The market is there. All that is required now from Canadians is the go-get-it enthusiasm that has characterized the Americans in their activities in the Orient."

Australia Is Not Unprepared For War

Could Supply Troops If Necessary Says Acting Premier

Melbourne.—Dr. Earle Page, Commonwealth treasurer, acting premier, says he does not share the pessimism of Sir John Monash, a former commander of the Australian Imperial forces, who recently uttered a warning with regard to Australia's unpreparedness in the event of war. Dr. Page states that the present defence organization is being maintained on a nucleus basis and plans have already been made for the construction of another Australian Imperial force in the event of necessity. He said the inauguration of a new defence scheme would depend upon the result of the recent Imperial conference.

Assist British Agriculture By Means of Subsidy

London.—It is understood that the cabinet has approved of the proposal to assist British agriculture by a subsidy of £1 an acre for all arable land on condition that a minimum wage of 30 shillings weekly shall be paid to farm laborers by each applicant for his subsidy. It is estimated on the present acreage that the maximum cost of the subsidy will be £11,000,000 a year. The matter was discussed by the parliamentary agricultural committee which approved of the scheme generally.

Saskatchewan Corn Show

G. H. Hoffman, Maple Creek, Crowned Corn King of Western Canada

Maple Creek.—G. H. Hoffman, Maple Creek, was crowned Corn King of Western Canada here, when he swept the boards at the first provincial corn show held under the auspices of the Saskatchewan Corn Growers' Association.

Mr. Hoffman carried away the silver trophy cup, donated by the Canadian Bank of Commerce for best corn at the show and becomes winner outright of this valuable award. He also captured the Ogilvie Flour Mills silver trophy cup for best exhibit of white or yellow corn in addition to being winner of three first prizes.

The Bank of Commerce trophy was taken by a very fine sample of North Western dent, and this also brought Mr. Hoffman first prize in the class. The other first prize awards given Mr. Hoffman were for the best Dakota white flint and for best Gohu yellow flint, the Ogilvie cup accompanying the latter.

Mr. Hoffman not only had to face competition from other corn growers from Alberta and Manitoba but was rivals for the big awards of the show. Other winners taking peculiar awards were: Chas. Marks, Midale, who took first with a sample of Alta yellow dent; Norman Ross, Superintendent of the Experimental Farm, Indian Head, who took a first with a sample of Manitoba flint; Prof. Southworth's new hybrid corn. Firsts were also won by P. A. Croshaw, of Benfield; Mrs. J. Abbott, Maple Creek; and W. M. Croft, Maple Creek. The specials offered for corn, subject to germination test, were not judged but will be sent to the College of Agriculture to be tested and will be announced two or three weeks hence.

Jap Fishers Best Say B.C. Cannermen

No Further Reduction in Licenses Made This Year

Ottawa.—The policy of gradual exclusion of Japanese fishermen from the fisheries of British Columbia is working very well, stated Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, when asked how he found it operating on his recent visit to the west. He added that the cannermen represented that it was an injury to them as the white fishermen were not working as hard as the Japanese did.

Mr. Lapointe said that he had been waited upon by the cannermen, while in British Columbia, and that the remedy for which they were asking was the re-admission of the Japanese fishermen to full privileges.

Last year a reduction of forty per cent. was made in the number of licenses issued to Japanese fishermen but so far no further reduction had been decided upon.

Mr. Lapointe intimated that the cannermen had made strong representation against any further reduction being made this year.

WESTERN VIEWS ON IMMIGRATION GIVEN AT OTTAWA

Ottawa.—Delegates from every province except Manitoba and British Columbia were present at the immigration conference held here.

Great stress was laid on the migration of young people from Canada to the United States by spokesmen of the Maritime Provinces, Quebec and Ontario. Premier Dunning, of Saskatchewan, on the other hand, expressed the belief that United States immigrants coming to Canada might balance the number of emigrants leaving the country for the United States. He qualified this remark by reminding the conference that he spoke for an agricultural province only, and he knew nothing of conditions in Ontario and Quebec, where there was much industrial activity. As the Federal Government maintained control of crown lands and natural resources in Saskatchewan, that province would continue to expect the Dominion Government to look after land settlement and immigration in the west, Premier Dunning told the conference. He reminded delegates from Ontario and Quebec, who complained about the way railway fares affected immigration, that the cost of the whole service overseas was charged against the revenue produced by the natural resources of the west. But the premier said his province was ready and anxious to aid immigration to Saskatchewan by placing the resources of its employment agencies at the service of immigration officials.

He questioned the seriousness of the emigration problem so far as people in the western provinces were concerned. He pointed out that the stream ran in both directions, and while it was impossible to establish a definite comparison, the number of families going north and south by the prairie schooner route, seemed evenly balanced.

"Knowing this to be true," said Premier Dunning, "I took upon stories of the great exodus of people from Canada as unduly pessimistic."

Hon. George Hoadley, minister of agriculture and health in the Alberta Government, was the last provincial representative to address the conference. He concurred in much that Premier Dunning had said, as the situation facing Alberta did not vary in many particulars from that confronting his sister province.

Mr. Hoadley believed that married men with families made the best settlers in the west as they were anchored to their homes and had not the disposition to drift which was found in single men. He did not believe that paternal government assistance to settlers was of much permanent benefit, and was convinced that more supervision should be exercised at points of embarkation so that only the best type of settler would be allowed to come to the country.

Picture a little clearing at the side of the railway track in the heart of North Ontario. All about are the hilly forests of Jack-pine, hemlock and flaming yellow poplar. A brilliant autumn sun falls on lake and forest and rocky cliff and in the centre is a little patch of cleared ground surrounding a tiny log cabin.
At its door a woman and three or four sturdy children are grouped. They are listening. From behind the billboard comes the reluctant whistle of a locomotive, and in a few moments the train sweeps into view. It flashes past drawn by an engine of the latest type such as engineers talk of with joy, and including six plum-coloured coaches, steel built from end to end. The varnished sides reflect the warm autumn sun. Bright brass trimmings and polished windows glisten as the train sweeps along its narrow path towards the West a thing of pride and power.

The children standing beside the log cabin are silent, each holding a tiny flag that carries to the train a message of greeting for David Lloyd George is passing by. The little Welshman of humble origin, the war-time Prime Minister of Imperial Britain is on his way from Toronto to Winnipeg and all along the railroad the people common to see him pass.

It was a wonderful trip. Heralded by newspaper front pages and by years of power, the man who led half a world in war, moved across Ontario through scene after scene such as this which has been sketched above.

"What a country, what a wonderful country!" It was Lloyd George who spoke. Seated in the drawing room of the private car at the end of the train he gazed over the countless lakes and endless forests that have past. About him were one or two officials of the number of newspaper representatives for whom accommodation was provided on the train. It was the time of the morning interview, when the press men gathered to ask him questions bearing on the news of the day which had come to the train by radio from all parts of the world, but mostly from Europe, and to every question came the Lloyd George answer, quick and to the point—no evasion, even when the question was a little personal, as now and then it might be. But the questions were mostly relevant to the great issues of the day. The twenty odd newspaper people from Great Britain, United States and Canada were the pick of "the game." They and the moving picture men, the newspaper reporters of the camera, were a "star" in some respects they had not seen their equal and they were loud in their praises. When they were told of what Lloyd George said, did and looked like during his flying trip over the Canadian Pacific line.

The baggage car, like all the rest, was of steel. The "luggage" car was in command of "Jimmie" Watson, the man who looked after the Prince of Wales' men when he made his first trip across Canada. There was an all steel standard sleeper and two of the ten-compartment cars that are better known. Behind them rode Lloyd George's private car. Both American and British correspondents had seen nothing better than this train in some respects they had not seen their equal and they were loud in their praises. When they were told
of what Lloyd George said, did and looked like
during his flying trip over the Canadian Pacific line.

As far west as Fort William J. C. Scully, General while D. C. Coleman, Vice-President of the line, took charge from there on. The press arrangements were taken care of by J. Harry Smith, the chief Press Representative.

Mother Gives Facts In Case of Daughter

"From the way Taniae helped Mary, my little eleven-year-old girl last spring, I think it is perfectly wonderful," said Mrs. J. H. McPhee, residing on McDonald St., East, Wetaskiwin, Alberta.

"Mary was eating almost nothing and even then she suffered from indigestion. She got so run-down that she complained of feeling tired all the time and did not have energy to romp and play like children do who are feeling right."

"Since I had Mary take Taniae she's like a different child. It gave her a good appetite, did away with indigestion and gave her plenty of energy and strength for both school work and play. I am most grateful for Taniae. It was just what Mary needed."

"Taniae is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 57-million bottles sold."

Heavy Movement of Grain

Canadian Pacific Railway Has Smashed All Previous Records in Grain Transportation

The Canadian Pacific Railway has, since the fifteenth of September up to and including October thirty-first, smashed all previous records in connection with grain transportation. Figures show that since the fifteenth of September up to midnight of the last day of October there were marketed at country elevators on the Canadian Pacific a total of 109,617,742 bushels of grain or an average of 2,312,352 bushels per working day. During the same period there were loaded a total of 42,093 cars, an average of 1,550 cars per day, which means that on the Canadian Pacific lines alone a car and a quarter of grain was loaded every minute each twenty-four hours during the twenty-seven working days. According to figures issued by the inspection Department's 25,275,166 bushels of grain were inspected on the company's lines, while combined inspections at Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago were 56,408,392 bushels, indicating that from September 15th to October 31st inspections in the Canadian Pacific alone were nearly equal to the combined inspections at the three American ports.

The movement east from Winnipeg during the same period totalled 52,904 cars or an average of 1,917 cars per day, while at the same time the company delivered at Vancouver 2,581 cars of grain, representing 5,915,720 bushels.

THE FALL WEATHER HARD ON LITTLE ONES

Canadian fall weather is extremely hard on little ones. One day it is warm and the next it is cold and cold. These sudden changes bring on colds, cramps and colic, and unless taken at once the littlest of us could make a serious case. There is nothing to equal Baby's Own Tablets in keeping the little ones well. They sweeten the stomach, regulate the bowels, break up colds and make baby thrive. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Well Organized Nation One Whose People Agree Provided For Says Italy's Premier

It, E. Benito Mussolini, Premier of Italy, in a recent interview, said: "No nation can call itself well organized and prosperous which has within its borders any large number of people who are insufficiently provided with the necessities of life. There is nothing the matter with the logic of socialism or communism; but life does not fit in with that logic, and look at what disaster has brought about in Russia by blindly insisting upon a logic that does not fit life. We live in a world of people."

Elevator at Edmonton Will Aid Western Route 2,500,000-Bushel Elevator 'Will Be Ready For 1924 Crop

A government terminal elevator, with 2,500,000 bushels capacity, is to be erected at Edmonton, Alberta, in time for handling the 1924 crop of the western provinces, it was announced by Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, on his return from Alberta. The new elevator will serve the needs of the Canadian National Railway and will also provide cleaning facilities, without which grain from Northern Alberta cannot be satisfactorily shipped via Vancouver for ocean carriage to the world markets.

A site has been selected, tests for the foundations are being made and contracts for the excavation of the elevator have been let. It is expected, before the first of the year and the construction is to be finished before the 1924 crop is ready for moving. The cost of the elevator will be between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000.

With the development of the wheat shipment via the Pacific coast trade the need of an interior elevator at Edmonton has become vital, as the cleaning facilities are necessary in order that farmers in the Edmonton district may be able to ship their grain via Vancouver. Additional elevator facilities are also being provided at Vancouver for the handling of grain at that port, and next year, it is expected, the amount of grain shipped via the Pacific route will show a tremendous increase over the amount handling this fall. Except for the additional facilities planned at Vancouver, this will be the only elevator construction undertaken by the government in the west during the next year.

Tourists Bring Much Money.

More than $170,000,000 came to Canada thru tourist traffic during last year, according to an estimate received from Ottawa by Canadian Nationality officials.

In addition to the great numbers of tourists brought into Canada by the railways during the regular tourist season, which this year was the heaviest the Canadian National has known, it is estimated that over a million autos entered the 9 provinces of Canada on business or pleasure during the season.

During the year, according to Government estimates, tourist traffic, as a revenue producer, took fourth place in Canada's industries, 996,329 autos entered Canada during the season, either for pleasure or business, and of this number nearly 50,000 came into the western provinces and B. C. The Pacific coast province headed the list with 35,226 cars registered for entry.
